

Why this collection of media art?

Where do you find information about media art in Bulgaria, Greece or Turkey? What does media art mean in each different country? Are there existing media art scenes there? Do media artists focus on any special topics or themes? Are there any significant or specific currents/trends in the scene?

ArtUP! probes media art's origins and trends, exhibits video art, sound art and net art on the web and documents e.g. performances and action art.

With this platform for uploading media artworks, ArtUP! has created a free virtual space in which to track the current scenes in Bulgaria, Greece and Turkey, to present and network media art in the region and spread it abroad, outside the region.

Who can participate?

Basically, anyone from Bulgaria, Greece or Turkey can participate in a number of different ways:

- actively take part in the ArtUP! media art collection
- create their own profile
- upload and exhibit their own media artworks on the virtual platform
- present their works internationally to artists, curators and a wide public
- apply to participate in a curated ArtUP! Project exhibition
- apply to attend workshops

How does that work in detail?
