WHAT IS SPARTH?

SPARTH is a 48-hour Space Art Hackathon happening in October in Bangalore. It will bring together people from different backgrounds. They will pitch artistic project ideas in the beginning and work on them in smaller teams.

SPACE, SCIENCE, SONIC, PARTICIPATION, PROJECTS, PROPOSALS, PROTOTYPES, ART, ARTICULATE, ARTIFACTS, ARTIFICIAL, AUGMENTED, ROCKETS, RESOURCES, REALITY, TECHNOLOGY, TINKER, TWEAK, HACK, HACKATHON, HUMAN

WHAT IS IT AIMING FOR?

The goal is to engage and connect local art and science communities, institutes, companies, and individuals as well as to connect the open source and DIY culture with the intellectual property side and academia. We are aiming for participants such as local artists, artist groups, students, space engineers, astrophysicists, creative technologists, and enthusiasts, to collaboratively build a physical outcome using materials that we provide and they bring along.

WHAT ARE WE LOOKING FOR?

Enthusiastic volunteers fascinated about Space, Art, and Science that want to collaborate in organizing this event. The tasks involved are spreading the word, the organization of the event itself, contacting potential sponsors, and collecting "toys to tinker with". No special skills in those fields needed, but a good understanding of the local scene would be appreciated!
