Marquardt, known for being a notorious photographer and a nightclub doorman in Berlin, will be featuring an intimate story about Berlin locals through “piercing and confident themes.” This will be a series of black and white portraits with humanity as subject, from his works for over 30 years. These photos portray dark and industrial themes while working with natural light and analogue photo equipment. This will also be the first time that the exhibit will be presented in Asia.

Black and white photographs are to be exhibited in the Future's Past exhibit happening on June 29 to August 11/IMAGE Goethe-Institut Philippinen's Facebook page

The Future's Past exhibit is brought by Goethe-Institut Philippinen, the German Cultural Center, and the Yuchengco Museum. On June 29 at 7 p.m., Marquardt will be open for a Q&A and short discussion of his works. Opening night is free admission, exhibit rates start at Php 50 for Seniors/Students/PWD and Php 100 for regular.
