HUNDRED YEARS DEUTSCHER WERKBUND

In October 1907, twelve artists and architects along with twelve Munich firms joined to form the Deutscher Werkbund. The aim to refine the entire industrialized world "from the sofa cushion to urban development" from an artistic point of view and to "educate" the populace with "well"-formed objects defined the German Werkbund's work until the last third of the 20th century.

The exhibition is designed to mark the hundredth anniversary of the Deutscher Werkbund (DWB), a German association of artists, architects, designers, and industrialists, born out of a desire for greater efficiency in the crafts industry, better design for industry, and a more modern approach to architecture. Through the exhibition of posters, models, furniture, design, drawings and photos, it describes the efforts, successes and achievements of DWB - an institution that helped to shape cultural life in Germany and in other European countries as well.
