Program "Film is Her Notebook" digagas bersama oleh Lisabona Rahman dan Ute Aurand, dipersembahkan oleh Lab Labalaba dan Goethe-Institut, didukung oleh Rubanah Underground Hub, Kinosaurus dan Arsenal Institut for Film and Video Art (Berlin).

In 2018, Indonesian film programmer/archivist Lisabona Rahman spent time at the Arsenal Film Archive in Berlin in the Living Archive residency program. Her focus of interest at the time was women filmmakers' work on film. It was during this search that she met with filmmaker Ute Aurand.

Ute Aurand has been working as a filmmaker since her student times in Berlin from 1979 and as a film programmer since 1990. Her works features people and landscape around her, wherever she goes. The films that she made use colors and compositions like paintings, move like films, keep personal records like diaries and are created in an economy that is very distinctly a practice of celluloid filmmaking.

Besides making films, Ute Aurand also curates film program, showcasing the works of women filmmakers from all around the world to the cinephile public in Germany. Her programming work shows the diverse ways that film has been used by many women as a sort of notebook to record personal surroundings which is later presented in form of a film. The film as a medium has a dimension of physicality, just like a notebook or a diary would, which contains records of the filmmakers' live and her emotions. Yet differently from a diary (or home movies), these films are made to be shared with the public therefore creating an interesting mix between personal documentation and artistic expression.

In Jakarta, Ute Aurand will show her films as well as teach a 16mm filmmaking workshop. Additionally, Lisabona Rahman presents a program of four films by other female filmmakers, conceived during her Living Archive residency. All films are shown in the 16mm film format.

Pada tahun 2018, programmer film/arsiparis Lisabona Rahman dari Indonesia menelusuri koleksi Arsenal Film Archive di Berlin dalam suatu program residensi. Keinginannya pada saat itu adalah menyaksikan sebanyak-banyaknya karya perempuan di atas pita seluloid. Dalam proses ini ia bertemu pembuat film Ute Aurand.

Ute Aurand telah bekerja sebagai pembuat film sejak masa kuliahnya di Berlin mulai tahun 1979 dan sebagai programmer film sejak tahun 1990. Karya-karyanya menampilkan orang-orang dan lansekap di sekitarnya, ke manapun ia pergi. Film-filmnya menggunakan warna dan komposisi seperti lukisan, bergerak seperti film, menyimpan jejak-jejak pribadi seperti buku harian dan semuanya diciptakan dalam ekonomi yang amat khas praktik pembuatan film seluloid.

Selain membuat film, Ute Aurand juga melakukan kuratorial film, mempertunjukkan karya-karya perempuan dari seluruh dunia kepada publik sinefilia di Jerman. Karya programnya menunjukkan beragam cara penggunaan film oleh banyak perempuan sebagai sejenis buku catatan untuk merekam lingkungan sekitarnya yang kemudian ditampilkan kembali dalam bentuk karya film. Film sebagai medium memiliki dimensi fisik, sama seperti buku catatan atau buku harian, yang mengandung rekaman kehidupan dan emosi si empu pembuatnya. Tapi berbeda dengan buku harian (atau film keluarga), film-film ini dibuat untuk sengaja dipertunjukkan ke publik dan karena itu merupakan paduan yang menarik antara dokumentasi personal dan ekspresi artistik.

Di Jakarta, Ute Aurand akan mempertunjukkan film-filmnya dan mengajar lokakarya pembuatan film 16mm. Selain itu, Lisabona Rahman menampilkan program yang terdiri dari empat film karya pembuat film perempuan yang ia susun selama residensi Living Archive. Semua judul ditampilkan dalam format 16mm.

Workshop with Ute Aurand

Only for selected participants

Seringkali film diidentikkan dengan narasi yang lurus dan mengikat, baik fiksi maupun dokumenter. Namun, bagaimana ketika film menjadi medium rekam keseharian, menjadi seperti sebuah diary untuk merekam peristiwa sehari-hari yang penulisnya secara aktif dan sadar memilih setiap rekam peristiwanya, bisa saja seputar rutinitas berangkat kerja, dari menyiapkan bekal sampai berdesak-desakan di dalam kereta, seputar liburan ke rumah kerabat yang jauh dari hiruk pikuk perkotaan, atau tentang apa saja. Bagaimana setiap individu memposisikan, menangkap dan menentukan perspektifnya masing-masing dalam ruang gerak privat dan sosial mereka. Ketika berbentuk tulisan, kita semua mungkin pernah melakukannya, baik kemudian untuk dijadikan refleksi personal atau dibagikan dalam kanal pilihan untuk dibaca bersama, tapi ketika berbentuk sebuah film mungkin masih asing bagi kebanyakan orang. Banyak pertanyaan yang bisa muncul, misalnya, bagaimana sebuah rekaman gambar gerak bisa menjadi catatan peristiwa keseharian dan film sekaligus, bagaimana menentukan gambar dan peristiwa yang akan direkam, bagaimana memposisikan diri dalam karya seperti ini, apakah ini sebuah karya fiksi atau dokumenter, dan banyak pertanyaan lainnya.

Dalam rangkaian program ini kami akan berusaha mengupas pertanyaan-pertanyaan tadi bersama Ute Aurand, seorang filmmaker asal Berlin yang sepanjang karirnya aktif membuat film dengan pendekatan potret dan diary menggunakan medium seluloid besar 16mm, bersama kita akan menonton dan berdiskusi.

Films, whether fiction films or documentaries, often stand for straight and fixed narratives. However, when a film becomes a medium for daily recording, it becomes a diary in which the author actively and consciously chooses which event to record. It can be about the routine of working life, about the preparations for lunch, or the jostling on the train, about a holiday in the house of a relative far away from the hustle and bustle of the city, just like anything else. It's about how a person positions herself, captures and determines her perspectives in her private and social spaces. This practice is known to us as writing: Many people know how to record everyday events of themselves, for personal reflection or for publication in a suitable place. But most people are unfamiliar with a cinematic diary practice. Many questions arise: How can shots of daily events be a film at the same time? How can you determine the images and events you want to capture? How do you position yourself in this work? Is it a fictional or documentary work?

With Film is Her Notebook we explore the posed questions together with Berlin-based experimental filmmaker Ute Aurand, who throughout her career has been making films with a portrait approach and diary using the medium of 16mm celluloid film. Together we will watch films, discuss, and work with analogue film material.
