

Jackie Abhulimen is born and raised in Athens, Greece to African immigrant parents and has been on a life-long mission to secure the rights of the generation of children born and/or raised in Greece from immigrant backgrounds. This mission involves a long history of organizing, activism and grassroots campaigning for the second generation. She is currently an Advocacy Officer at Generation 2.0 RED where her work focuses on political activism, social solidarity and civic engagement. She holds a degree in Development and Peace Studies from the University of Bradford, UK.