

Aspa Chalkidou

Aspa Chalkidou is a social anthropologist currently completing postdoctoral research on the concept of asylum as a contradictory symbol of inclusion within the nation and Europe, under a Marie Skłodowska-Curie fellowship (University of Warwick). In 2015, Chalkidou received a Ph.D. in the Department of Social Anthropology and History, University of Aegean, Greece. Their thesis consisted of a long-term ethnographic study of BDSM social and sexual networks in contemporary Greece. Over the last decade, Chalkidou has participated in several EU funded interdisciplinary projects as a postdoc and field researcher, undertaking research on sexual and gender politics, kinship, migration policies, along with issues of institutional injustice.
