films from Germany

WELCOME

Fokus: Films from Germany, now in its seventh edition, is a partnership between Goethe-Institut (Glasgow) and Filmhouse (Edinburgh). Variety is something we always strive for with this annual snapshot of contemporary German cinema, and this year is no exception. Daniel Brühl gets a timely lesson in the downside of gentrification, and social inequality, in his local Berlin bar in his directorial debut, Next Door; Germany's role in the 'false prospectus' that led to the Iraq War is the subject of the surreal, comic Curveball; disturbing and vivid, Sleep is a vital slice of Lynchian dream-horror from feature debut director Michael Venus. Two documentaries round off the selection: The Case You reconstructs the systematic abuse that five actresses fell victim to during a casting session; and The Guardian follows a Syrian Orthodox nun in remote south east Turkey as she endures the hostility of the local community.

Rod White, Head of Filmhouse

Welcome to the seventh edition of Fokus: Films from Germany! Film is the contemporary expression of the arts that probably excites us most. Films from Germany are movies with passion, humor, emotion and empathy. Films that, in their vitality and timeliness, are to build a bridge from continental Europe to the United Kingdom. We invite audiences all across Scotland to explore Germany as a multifaceted country with a distinct artistic language and place within European film. I am particularly delighted that this event has been realized in close collaboration with many partners, in Scotland and abroad.

INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the seventh edition of Fokus: Films from Germany!

We are more than happy to go back into cinemas for the seventh Fokus: Films from Germany edition, after the sixth was a fully online affair. We had great experiences and learned many things, but nothing can fully replace the experience and atmosphere of a physical screening and face-to-face interaction.

Nevertheless, as a result of the shortened online festival we decided to include some changes also in this edition. We reduced the festival time to three weeks instead of nearly three months and moved the screenings into January 2022, to make a fresh start in the new year with some exciting and diverse snapshots of the contemporary film scene in Germany.

Alongside a selection of documentaries, we also present some interesting new feature films, and we are happy that screenings will take place in Edinburgh, Glasgow, Aberdeen, Inverness, Ayr, Dundee, St Andrews and even up north in Shetland!

We are starting our festival in Berlin, in the Prenzlauer Berg district with the feature film Next Door (Nebenan) by Daniel Brühl - who also plays the main character in a deliciously self-deprecating manner.

A confrontation of opposites, local versus global, victim versus winner of the gentrification, roller-bag take-off versus eavesdropping via the window to the courtyard. An overlooked man, one of reunification's losers versus the celebrated German-Spanish actor.

Our documentaries, The Case You and The Guardian, present courageous and fearless women in very different environments, with different backgrounds and in different stages of their lives.

In The Case You, Alison Kuhn brings, including herself, five actresses together in a theatre hall where the women are breaking their silence and exploring together the systematic assaults of a sexual and violent nature (which actually did happen) in a joint casting four years ago and how that influenced their present lives. We are particularly excited to have an online post-screening at the Filmhouse Edinburgh with Aileen Lakatos and Isabelle Bertkes from the cast of The Case You.

In the film The Guardian (Die Wächterin), which is the winner of the Goethe-Institut Documentary Film Prize - DOC Leipzig, the camera follows the Syrian Orthodox nun Dayrayto through her everyday life of protecting the church in Zaz, a dilapidated and abandoned Assyrian village in southeastern Turkey.

INTRODUCTION

The camera captures her daily struggle, confronted with a hostile environment and no support from her local communities. But even after her companion dies and with the hardship of loneliness and fear, she still faces the task and does not give up.

The documentary TRANS - I got life takes a different perspective. Directors Imogen Kimmel and Doris Metz gained the trust of seven people who decided to go their own way. From their stories, the film distils the broad spectrum of trans identity. With a subtle and multi-layered approach, the film also transports the trans experience on a unique visual and sound level.

In Copilot (Die Welt wird eine andere sein), director Anne Zorah Berrached portrays a great love during the 90s - and the radical terror that separates it (Frankfurter Rundschau). Inspired by real stories of the life of terrorists' wives, the film shows Asli and Saeed's relationship, promising and full of dreams, which soon will be divided through ideology, political polarisation, and religious beliefs.

A more captivating and absurd approach is taken by the film Curveball, which is based on a true story – unfortunately. A political drama which veers into the grotesque, Curveball recounts the story about Rafid Alwan's testimony, which was not only misused for personal career advancement and political power plays but also as the key arguments to justify the 2003 war in Iraq.

The psychological thriller Sleep (Schlaf) tells the story of three generations of women, fatefully bound together and a well-kept family secret, which not only haunts the inhabitants of a remote village but also threatens the lives of Marlene and her 19-year-old daughter.

The films will be screened in Edinburgh, Glasgow, Aberdeen, Inverness, Ayr, Dundee, St Andrews and in Shetland!

Come and join us for one or more of the screenings and discover some of the contemporary and historical ideas and obsessions driving artistic and cultural expression in Germany.

Berlin, the Prenzlauer Berg district. Daniel is a movie star accustomed to success. His loft apartment is stylish and so is his wife, and the nanny has the children under control. Everything is tip-top, bilingual and ready for him to jet off to an audition in London where a role in an American superhero film awaits the celebrated German-Spanish actor. Popping into the local bar on the corner, he finds Bruno sitting there. As transpires by the minute, Bruno has been waiting for this moment for a long time. And so this eternally overlooked man – one of reunification's losers and a victim of the gentrification of what was once East Berlin – takes his revenge.

And Daniel is his target...

Five actresses spend a few days together in a theatre hall. They are all in their twenties and took part in a casting over four years ago, during which there were systematic assaults of a sexual and violent nature.

Alison Kuhn was also one of the applicants at the time. Like many of her colleagues, she tried to forget that day as quickly as possible. However, since the director who led the casting continued the abuse by editing his own film from the filmed material, a legal dispute is currently burning between the production company and the actresses. Hardly anything has been made public.

In the protected space, the women are now breaking their silence and exploring together what happened back then and what the events mean for their present.

For 18 years, the Syrian Orthodox nun Dayrayto lives on the grounds of a church in Zaz, a dilapidated and abandoned Assyrian village in southeastern Turkey. Together with the monk Abuna she cared for the church for fourteen years. Ever since the monk died four years ago Dayrayto lives alone with her two dogs, a cow, chicken, and three cats. She is vulnerable to multiple threats. Her presence in the region is a thorn in the side of many local actors. There has always been hostilities from the Muslim side and little support from her own community. Lately, the situation is getting worse and Dayrayto fears for her dog's life, which she believes has been deliberately poisoned. The camera follows Dayrayto through her everyday life and observes her struggle for survival, her worries and hardships as fear and loneliness are her constant companions. And yet, Dayrayto is a courageous and fearless woman - she promised Abuna to never leave this holy place and to protect the church, no matter what.

Johannes Naber | Germany 2020 | 108 min | German with English subtitles

Cast: Sebastian Blomberg, Dar Salim, Virginia Kull, Thorsten Merten, Michael Wittenborn

Bioweapons expert Wolf of the German Federal Intelligence Service BND is obsessed with the idea that, despite the UN inspections, anthrax is still being produced in Iraq. Back home in Germany, his superior Schatz assigns him as case officer for the Iraqi asylum seeker Rafid Alwan - because Alwan claims to have worked as an engineer for Saddam Hussein's secret bioweapons program. It's a rare triumph for a secret service not exactly spoiled by success: finally they have a piece of intelligence that would put them one step ahead of the CIA. What they are missing, though, is proof. The search for which proves difficult, as Curveball is well aware of his value to the agency. His claims, meanwhile, end up serving a number of decidedly different interests - the CIA, the German government, everyone is trying to use his incredible story for their own purposes. Thus, bit by bit, a construed story becomes reality and a lie becomes the truth. A truth, which sets in motion a chain of events that for-ever changes the global political landscape.

Tormented by recurring nightmares of a place she has never been, Marlene cannot help but investigate when she discovers the place is real. Against the advice of her daughter Mona, she drives to the place, where she suffers a breakdown and is admitted to a psychiatric ward. Determined to discover what happened to her, Mona follows and finds herself in Stainbach, an idyllic village with a dark history. What is it that so tormented her mother, and the people of Stainbach? What is the source of the nightmares she suffers? And who is the mysterious Trude that lives in the forest?

For Mona, a rollercoaster ride into the abyss begins, playing with fairytale elements and blurring the boundaries between dream and reality.

TRANS - I GOT LIFE

GLASGOW FILM THEATRE WED 26 JAN 22 | 18:15

Doris Metz, Imogen Kimmel | Germany 2019 | 96 min | German with English subtitles | Documentary

"TRANS is not a curse or a disease"

The documentary accompanies the renowned doctor and transgender surgeon Dr Schaff, who has been performing gender reassignment surgeries for many years and is also constantly developing the available surgical methods. At the same time, the film also focuses on some of his patients, who are each in very different phases of their transition. The spectrum of those portrayed ranges from San Francisco, where the focus is on the future of transgender surgery, to Russia, where operations and other measures can only be carried out in secret.

The film offers rarely seen insights into trans people's often torn sense of life and the complex psychological, hormonal and often also surgical aspects of their transition.
