About the show

"LES AMAZONES" is a play that tells the story of two fighting sisters. Zama and Sone are called upon day and night to provide for their family. Without worrying about the source of the money they receive, the members of their family multiply the requests for help both through letters and through telephone calls. Forced into prostitution since the age of 12, the two sisters engage in a battle for the triumph of love and life.

Selected among a hundred other talents by a jury made up of Jonas Embom (theatre teacher, actor and director), Bertrand Baleguel (actor and theater director) and Lisette Nange (actress and theater director), Laurita Ngringeh offers us a show prepared under the watchful eye of his coaches: Naouele Antonia (Choreographer) and Akumbu Louis Jones Bubuh (director).

About Laurita Ngringeh

Born in 1992 and originally from North-West Cameroon, Laurita Ngringeh is a plural artist combining both the cap of a student and that of a director, but above all that of an actress. Versatile, she has assumed various functions in theater and cinema projects: make-up artist, costume designer, administrator, producer, director, actress.

About Goethe-Découverte

Initiated in 2015 by the Goethe-Institut Kamerun, Goethe-Découverte is a platform for the promotion of young Cameroonian artistic talents in several disciplines (comics, music, visual arts, theater, dance, performance). Following a selection by a jury of professionals, the winner benefits from multifaceted support from the Goethe-Institut: coaching, assistance with production and distribution, video of the show, organization of a show at the Goethe-Institut, honorary,...). The performance is followed by an exchange with the journalists and the interested public.

This show will be broadcast live via Live Facebook on the Goethe-Institut Kamerun page.
