of communication on the internet
have different effects.

Language Learning Goal
You can write memes.

You can describe what impressions
you had of someone.

MEMES— CONVERSATIONS

Memes are hype, art, criticism, humor and nonsense. Memes are THE internet phenomenon, a form of expression and a form of communication at the same time.

Here you will have meme conversations and get to know a student of the partner class and consider whether and how you actually get to know him or her in the process.

YOUR ASSIGNMENTS:

1

Your teacher has given you the contact information of a student in your partner class.
Think: What would you like to know from them? Write down 5 questions.

My questions to my partner:

2

Then, write your first question to your partner.
You will also get a question from them.

3

Answer the question with a meme.
Either take your own photo and add text, or use a template like those found on many meme apps and meme websites.

4

Continue to exchange ideas like this. Ask questions and respond with a meme.
You can do this as many times as you like, but at least three or four times.

MEMES—CONVERSATIONS

5

Think briefly: What impression do you have of your partner? What are they like? How do you imagine them? Make a few notes.

6

Then, arrange to video chat with your partner. Share your questions again now.

Then consider together:

- What was your impression of each other before the video chat?
- Has your impression been confirmed?
- What is different? What surprised both of you?
